St. Petersburg Police looking for Carjacking Suspect

On May 21, 2017 at about 9 p.m., two men approached a man unloading his 2016 Dodge Charger in the alley in front of his home. One man held a baton to the victim's chest and told him that he was being robbed. They pushed the victim aside, jumped into the car and took off.

Police recovered the car a short time later near the 1000 block of 112th Cir N.

45 minutes after the carjacking, the suspects were caught on surveillance in the 7-11 on 4th Street N. then leaving in a black SUV.

Police are still looking for the suspect in the red shirt and would like the public to help identify him.

The suspect wearing the gray shirt, Michael Miller, was identified and has been arrested.

Attached to this media alert are pictures of the suspects and the black SUV.

If anyone recognizes the man in the red shirt or the SUV, we ask them to call SPPD at 727-893-7780 or text the keyword "SPPD" and the tip to Tip-411 (847-411).
