St. Petersburg Stat Map

Wonder why there was a police car parked down the street, if anyone reported that annoying pothole or what's being done about that overgrown yard? Now St. Petersburg residents will be able to answer their questions in one stop online.

The City of St. Petersburg will soon launch a new tool called "Stat Map" to show where the city is responding to residents through code enforcement, SeeClickFix, and police calls for service.

A media preview will be held on January 12th, at 3 p.m., in the Community Resource Room, St. Petersburg City Hall, 175 5th Street North.

The public will have access through the city and police websites on January 15th. This is another step in Mayor Kriseman's plan to create a more transparent and open city government. Mayor Kriseman will provide details. Chief of Police Anthony Holloway, and James Corbett, Codes Compliance will also be available for questions.
